

KEEP ON BURNIN': USA Network has renewed Miami-based television series Burn Notice for a fourth season. The series is on hiatus right now, with nine episodes of the third season airing this summer and the final seven set to air starting in January, according to the Greater Miami Convention & Visitors Bureau. The show, one of the most popular on USA, has been touted by Miami-Dade film officials for filming -- and therefore keeping its economic impact -- local. Series work has been based in the City of Miami's Coconut Grove Convention Center.
