

LIGHTS, CAMERA, HOPING FOR ACTION: To lure film production back to Miami-Dade, County Commissioner Bruno Barreiro is rallying for state legislation that would create a tax-based incentive program. Florida's existing film incentive was funded at $25 million in fiscal 2008, fell to $5 million in fiscal 2009 and saw some recovery this year to $10.8 million. But industry players and proponents say it's not enough. He hopes to see legislation pass in Tallahassee that would transform the program from a cash-reimbursement model to a tax-credit model, helping protect the bait from future state budget cuts.